THE ORIGINAL SWISS ARMY OFFICERS' KNIFE

First And Finest Since 1897

VICTORINOX — THE ORIGINAL SWISS ARMY OFFICERS' KNIFE

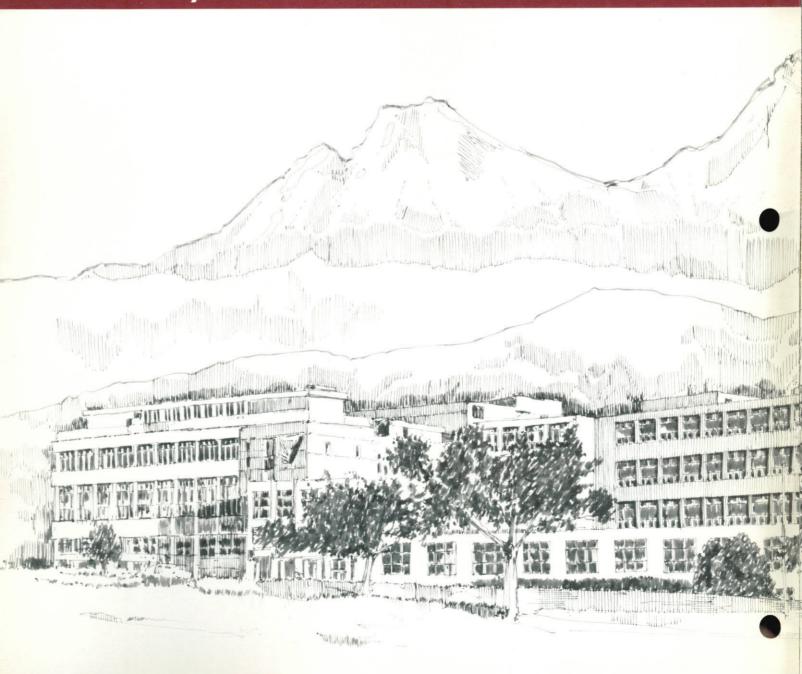

Karl Elsener, the fourth son of Balthasar and Victoria Elsener-Ott, learned the craft of knife-making in Zug, Switzerland, the town of his forefathers. He apprenticed in Paris, France and Tuttlingen, Germany where he specialized in making razors and surgical instruments. When he returned to Switzerland, he opened his own shop in the former Koller mill on the Tobelach River in Ibach on January 1, 1884. There he designed and manufactured the revolutionary knife that was patented in 1897 and later became the official knife of the Swiss Army. Following invention of the knife, Elsener changed the company name by adding the Latin word for steel (nox) to the end of his mother's name — thus Victorinox.

Today, 100 years later, that same proud European tradition endures in the worldfamous Victorinox Original Swiss Army Officers' Knife. The Elsener Family has carried on the quality and fine Swiss craftsmanship that founder Karl Elsener established long ago. The knives are regarded as pocket toolboxes and are standard equipment for space shuttle astronauts, K2 and Mount Everest climbers, and have been to sea with Jacques Cousteau. Several U.S. Presidents have had their signatures inlaid on the handle as a keepsake or gift.

Victorinox Original Swiss Army Officers' Knives have received awards for excellence in design throughout the world, and the Champion model, with 24 features, is included in the permanent Industrial Design

. . . A Century Of Excellence

Museum of Modern Art. The Champion undergoes over 340 different operations undergoes over 340 different operations during its manufacture and every model is subject to rigorous quality control before leaving the factory. Victorinox Original Swiss Army Officers' Knives bear the distinctive inlaid silver Swiss cross on the handle and the Victorinox trademark on the shank of the large blade, assuring consumers that they have the original, the first and finest.
